

Website Name: Music Multiverse

Description:

- Music Multiverse is a sort of archive/blog/collaborative website where people can post their songs or about their favorite songs. Songs can be posted with a description or even shared with others through chats or playlists. The main idea is that people can share songs with others that they may think are lesser-known, as well as having the songs be shown on the website in their genre category. This website gives a platform for lesser-known songs to be remembered and showcased to listeners that may be looking for something new or unheard-of. By combining a variety of music tastes, music listeners can discover and appreciate new genres they may have never listened to otherwise.
